

Trade Show Report

The Fall trade shows are now over and it's time to take inventory and put stock back in order. It was a great pleasure to meet customers face-to-face and help them select just the right fabric and patterns for their next sewing project. To everyone who dropped by the Distinctive Sewing booth, I look forward to seeing you in Spring 2007 wearing your completed garments, or with a picture in hand. I always love to see what you've created.

Fashion Sewists Show Their Stuff

Two women dropped by the booth at the Creativ Festival in Toronto wearing the San Diego Jacket. One had used Batik Butik Linen Blend in Turquoise Corona and Incomparable Buttons which just worked perfectly with the fabric. Another had sewn her jacket with Kiev Brocade in Purple. Both jackets looked absolutely terrific on them. The San Diego Jacket pattern, Corona Linen Blend and Kiev Brocade can be ordered online at www.distinctivesewing.com.

Pattern Special for November 2006

For the month of November only, if you purchase two or more Bali Collection patterns, they will be priced at $15.99 each; a savings of $2.00 per pattern.

Kayla Kennington Modular Design Patterns

Panel Top & Panel Vest

Angel Top

Kayla Kennington's Modular Design patterns were popular at the Fall trade shows. I was absolutely delighted when a woman entered the booth wearing the Panel Vest. She had used various colours of silk and joined the modular pieces with beads. It was a beautiful piece of work and looked stunning on her.

Kayla Kennington has been creating extraordinary hand-dyed silk clothing, costumes, and fine art dolls professionally for the past 25 years. Kayla is the "Crème de la Crème" winner of both the 2001 and 2002 Bernina Fashion Show for the "Butterfly Coat" and the "Fire Blossom Phoenix" showpieces.

If you are looking for an opportunity to create a garment from treasured fabrics in your stash, this might just be the garment for you. The Modular patterns contain instructions for three different and creative methods for joining the modular pieces.
